

The image shows the front cover of a book. The cover has a marbled pattern in shades of dark red, brown, and gold. A large, irregular diagonal tear runs from the upper left towards the lower right, revealing a white surface underneath. The letters 'OHS' are printed in a large, gold, serif font, centered horizontally and partially obscured by the tear. The letters are enclosed within a thin gold rectangular border.

The Centers for Disease Control entered uncharted territory with the outbreak of a respiratory disease caused by a novel (new) coronavirus. First detected in China in December of 2019, COVID-19 rapidly spread worldwide, first to Korea and Japan, then to Italy and the United States; as of March 31st, there are 854,039 cases and 42,014 deaths worldwide. On April 1st the United States had over 700 deaths in one day. The peak is not expected in New York for another 3-4 weeks. By March of 2020, multiple states, including New York declared a state of emergency; on March 10th, universities around the States began to shut down and moved exclusively to online learning in an effort to keep people from congregating in close quarters. The stock market plummeted in response to the virus, and many businesses - particularly in the industries of tourism and air travel - faced devastating losses of demand for their services. Within the United States, people respond to the increase in confirmed cases by rushing to stores to stock up on hand sanitizer, soap, disinfecting wipes, protective face masks, and even toilet paper. Store shelves were empty of products within hours of opening their doors. The situation evolved on a day-to-day, hour-by-hour basis. New travel restrictions were implemented by the US administration and On March 11, the World Health Organization declared COVID-19 a pandemic. On March 15, schools across New York began to close, some for one week, some for two weeks, and others indefinitely, as buildings needed to be cleaned and large crowds were discouraged from gathering. Students were NOT allowed back in the buildings. High school sports seasons were ended. Our class B section VI champion boys basketball team could NOT continue in the state tournament because the tournament was canceled. As of April 1st all New York State schools are still closed. Students are required to do online learning and it seems all spring sports will be cancelled.

The National Basketball League announced at 9:31 p.m. ET on March 11 that all games, including those scheduled for that night, were canceled until further notice while the league determined its next steps. This move was made as a result of Utah Jazz center Rudy Gobert testing positive for COVID-19. On Thursday, Jazz guard Donovan Mitchell confirmed on Instagram that he, too, had tested positive. Five NBA teams who had played the Jazz were ordered to self-quarantine: the Detroit Pistons, Boston Celtics, Cleveland Cavaliers, New York Knicks and the Toronto Raptors.

Following the NBA's action, the National Hockey League also suspended their season on March 11. With 189 games and three and a half weeks remaining in the NHL's regular season, the league hopes to resume once the virus peaks. Major League Baseball announced at the same time that all remaining Spring Training games were canceled and the 2020 season would be delayed for at least 2 weeks. Major League Soccer and the PGA followed suit by canceling their respective events.

On March 11, it was announced that all March Madness tournament games would play with no crowds in attendance. As fears over coronavirus worsened, however, that suspended audience turned to outright cancellation on March 12. NCAA President Mark Emmert canceled the Division I men's and women's 2020 basketball tournaments, as well as all remaining winter and spring NCAA championships. "This decision is based on the evolving COVID-19 public health threat, our ability to ensure the events do not contribute to spread of the pandemic, and the impracticality of hosting such events at any time during this academic year given ongoing decisions by other entities," the NCAA said in a statement.

On March 12th, Disneyland in Anaheim, California, announced that it would close for an undetermined length of time in their own bid to help people practice "social distancing" during the spread of the virus. The parks previously closed down in the wake of the JFK assassination, the Northridge earthquake in 1994, and after 9/11, but this closure represents their longest closure in history. The closure began on March 14 and was expected to continue through the end of the month.

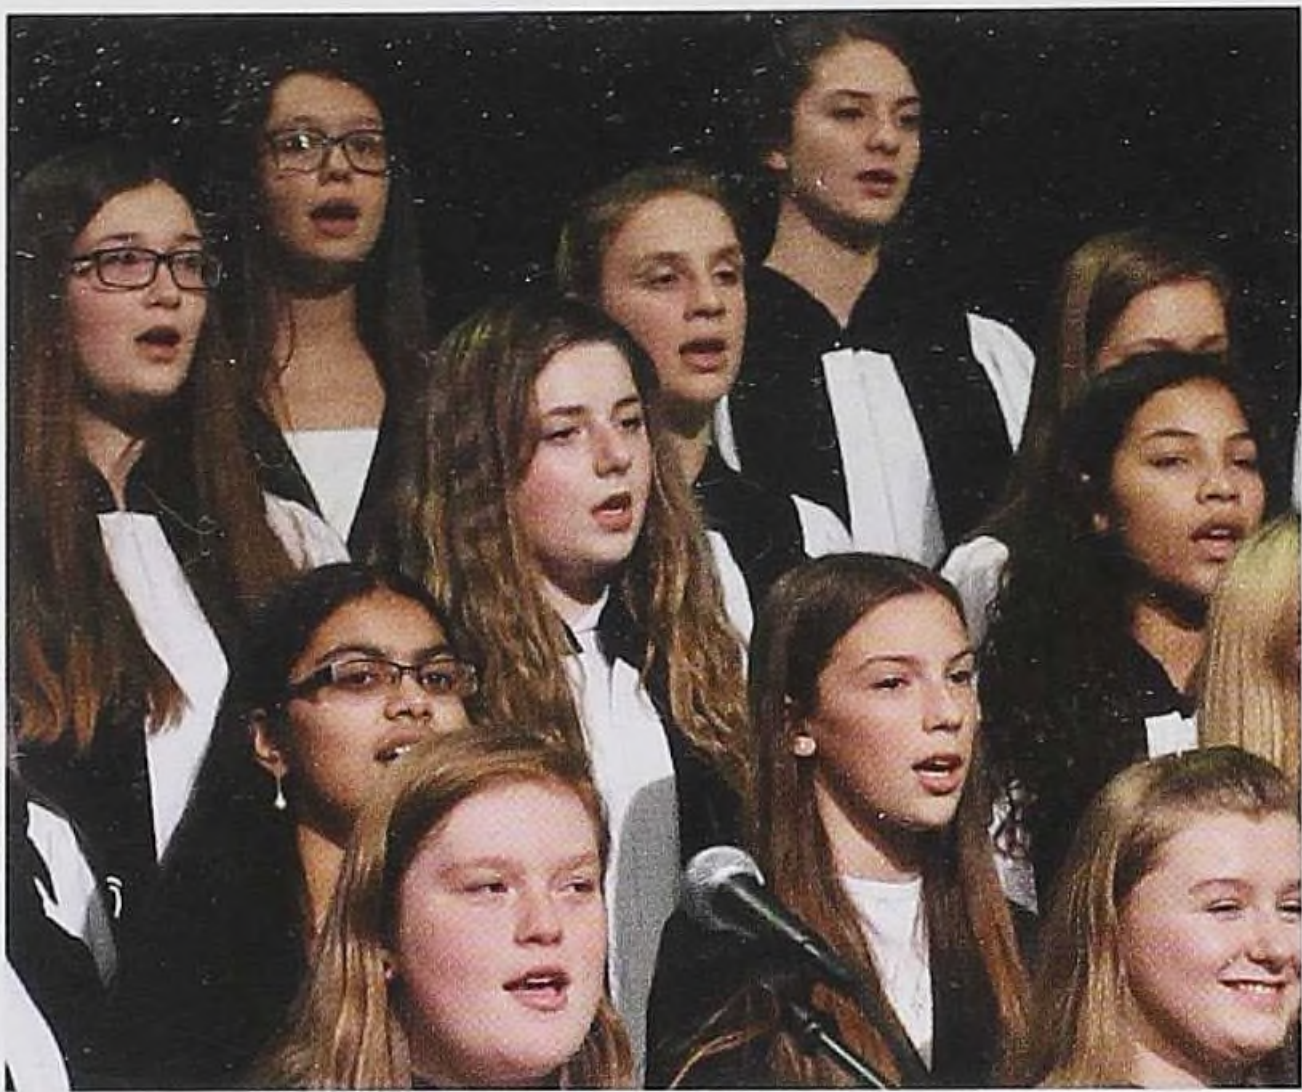

In response to COVID-19, many countries imposed travel restrictions at their borders. Passengers arriving from international destinations were screened for fevers and faced a 14-day quarantine depending upon where they'd been traveling. On March 11, President Trump shut down travel between the United States and Europe for 30 days in an effort to contain the virus.

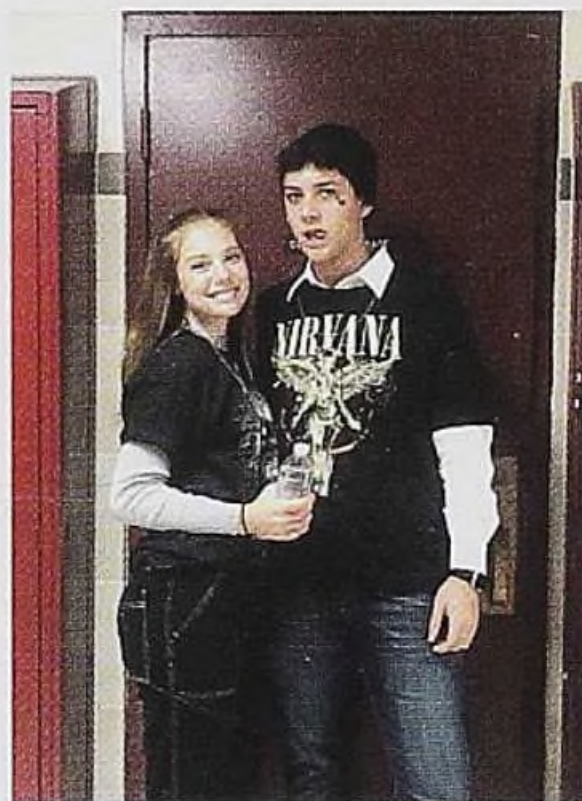

Broadway theatres went dark at 5:00 PM on March 12, by order of New York Governor Andrew Cuomo. Performances were scheduled to resume the week of April 13. The announcement came as venues and performing arts organizations around New York City and the country announced closures of their own amid rising concerns about the global coronavirus pandemic. Governor Cuomo announced in a press conference that no gatherings of more than 500 people would be allowed, excepting schools, hospitals, mass transit, and nursing homes.

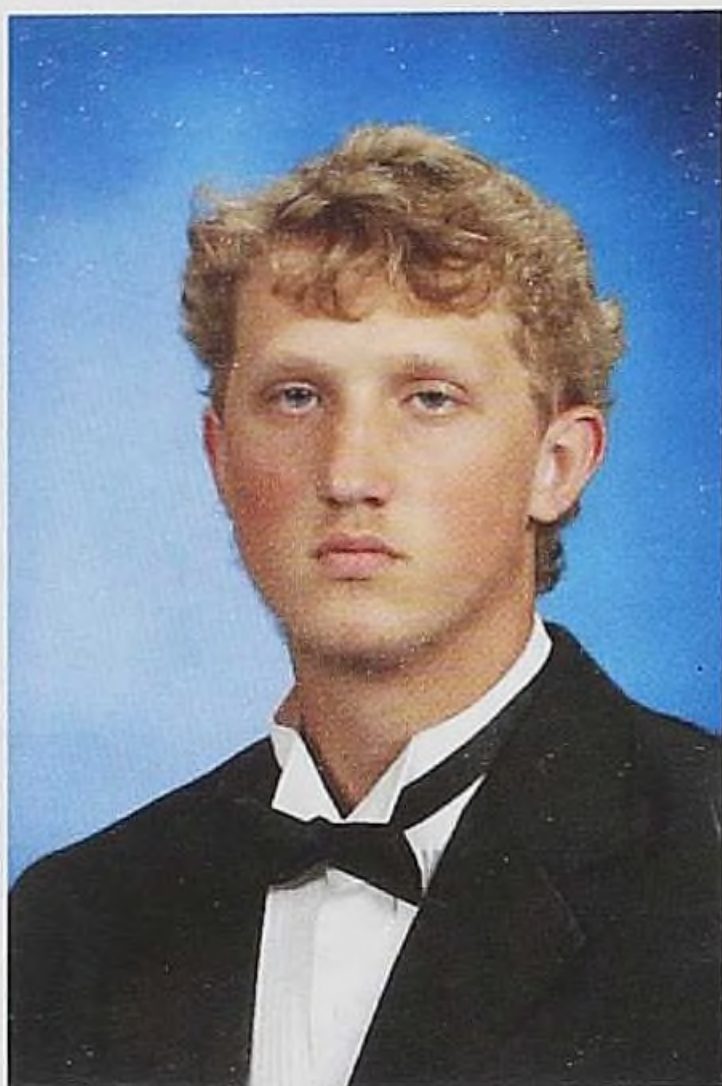

Propelled by fears of the coronavirus, the stock market fell into crisis in a matter of 16 days of trading. The Standard & Poor's 500 entered a bear market for the first time since the financial crisis of 2008, and the Dow endured its biggest one-day percentage drop since the 1987 crash. The 16-day drop was the fastest decline ever and happened nearly twice as fast as the stock market crash in 1929, "This is bad. The worst and fastest stock market correction in our career," stated an economist. "The economy is doomed to recession if the country stops working and takes the next 30 days off. The stock market knows it. Bet on it."
